

ASHVILLE PHYSICIAN IS HEALTH CHIEF

DR. LOY SCHIFF IS ELECTED TO COUNTY OFFICE

Miss Bartholomew, Miss Wolfe are Rehired by County Health Board

JOB IS PART TIME

New Healthier Has Been In Ashville for 8 Years

Dr. Loy C. Schiff of Ashville was selected as part-time health commissioner at the regular meeting of the Pickaway-co Board of Health Friday afternoon in the office here. Dr. Schiff will fill the position made vacant by the death of Dr. A. L. Stump of Derby.

He will assume his duties on Sunday, Feb. 1.

Miss Helen M. Bartholomew was retained as county health nurse for the ensuing year and Miss Martha M. Wolfe was rehired as clerk of the board at the meeting.

Since the untimely death of Dr. Stump at his home in Derby the county has been without a health commissioner, although Miss Helen M. Bartholomew, the health nurse, has been practically fulfilling the duties of the commissioner. She has been busy day and night traveling from first one corner of the county then to the other in pursuit of her additional work.

The new commissioner will maintain his medical practice in Ashville but will provide part of his time to the health office with headquarters here. He is a graduate of Ohio State University medical school in the class of '22. After graduation he went to Warren, O., as an interne in the hospital.

He removed to Ashville eight years ago where he has made many friends. Dr. Schiff is known through the county as a reliable physician and gives promise of making a very good health commissioner.

PROBE FATHER, SON MURDERS

HILLSBORO, O., Jan. 31.—Highland-co authorities today were investigating the story of Ed Green, 49, who, they said, declared that he killed Spence Guston, 55, and his son, Howard Guston, 23, in self defense.

Green was held in the county jail here while officials probed the two murders.

Sheriff Stanley Miller said that a neighbors' quarrel was responsible for the killings which occurred at Green's home at Marshall, O., eight miles east of here.

The Sheriff said that Green told him he shot the father and son when they attacked. According to the man's story, the Gustons called at Green's home, dared him to come outside and then struck him over the head with a club while he was standing in the doorway.

It is expected a large throng will be present to hear this interesting speaker.

C. E. Riley, Retired, Well Known As Railroad Man

C. E. Riley, S. Court-st., this city, who was recently retired with pension by the Pennsylvania Railroad having more than 45 years of service, is no doubt one of the best known railroad men on the Zanesville Branch of the Panhandle Division.

On March 15, 1881 he obtained employment with his father, then a track foreman on the Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley Division. He was promoted to the position of track foreman Sept. 1, 1883, and served in that and various other occupations, such as work train foreman, gang foreman, machinist apprentice, and locomotive fireman until Oct. 1, 1892.

When he was promoted to the position of supervisor of the Zanesville Branch with headquarters in Circleville. He was actively engaged in this class of work until about two years ago when ill health caused his retirement from active service.

He was united in marriage with Miss Margaret Rooney in St. Joseph Catholic Church here, Nov. 30, 1899. To this union four children were born: John A., employed by the Mead Pulp and Paper Co., Chillicothe, O.; Leo A., instructor in Mechanical Drawing in the public school, Belleville, Ill.; Miss Winifred, nurse in the government hospital at Chillicothe, O.; and Mrs. Catherine Green who resides with

TABER'S TALK IS LAUDED BY LARGE CROWD

"Agriculture's New Day" Topic of National Master Of The Grange

RECTOR IS NAMED

Program Through Entire Day is Well Handled

The eleventh annual meeting of the Pickaway-co Farm Bureau was pronounced one of the most successful and popular in the history of the local organization and a delegation of 450 rural folks enjoyed the day. The program committee in arranging the program scheduled the business reports and the administrative business of the organization for the morning session. The committee then arranged the afternoon program for a combined forum of Farm Bureau and Grange members.

SCHOOLS ASSIST

The Walnut-twp school orchestra furnished the entertainment for the morning program and the Pickaway-twp school chorus afforded the entertainment for the afternoon program.

Miss Minnie C. Price, life-time demonstration leader of Ohio State University, discussed the "Contribution Which Women are making to Organized Agriculture." Miss Price discussed the changes which farm home life is experiencing in keeping pace with the changes in business, in industrial organizations, and in changing standards of living. She congratulated Pickaway-co farm women upon the accomplishments they have attained in their organized health, nutrition and clothing projects.

L. J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, who for 30 years has been an ardent advocate of the need for farm organizations, presented an address, "Agriculture's New Day." Mr. Taber, who has a National reputation as an orator, depicted most concisely a number of the changes which have been incurred by the farm industry in our agricultural history. In our wheat acreage, the cradle has been replaced by the combine. In plowing and fitting operations, the team and the plow are rapidly being replaced by the tractor drawn to, two and three bottom plows. In the dairy industry power farming has made it possible for one man to efficiently manage a herd of dairy cows, and so on through the line, says Mr. Taber.

PROGRAM NEEDED

The first essential in meeting these ever changing conditions are strong farm organizations, with a definite program and a definite Continued on Page 5 Col. 5

3 SLAYERS ARE HANGED

Murderers of Deputy Sheriff After Bank Robbery Die In Colorado Today.

CANON CITY, Col., Jan. 31.—Three bandits who looted a bank at Manter, Kan., and killed a Colorado deputy sheriff in their flight had paid with their lives today on the gallows in the state penitentiary here.

The trio were hanged last night having settled the order in which they were to die by flipping coins in the death cell before the march to the gallows began. Claude Ray was the first to die. He was followed shortly by Andrew Halliday and John Walker. All died calmly.

They had been convicted of the murder of Undersheriff C. A. Hickman of Eads, Co., who pursued them from Kansas into Colorado after they had held up a bank at Manter on the afternoon of March 14, 1930. Sheriff Duncan Coe of Cheyenne Wells, Col., was seriously wounded in the gun battle.

Seeing and Hearing In Television Booth

Although Fannie Hurst world-celebrated novelist, claims that life has given her many thrills, she has no hesitation in saying that she experienced the greatest thrill of an eventful life when she sat in a television booth and saw and spoke to her husband, J. CASEY REHIRED AS GOLF "PRO"

Popular Youth Renamed By Greens Committee of Pickaway Country Club.

Frank Casey, popular golf professional, at the Pickaway Country Club last summer, has again signed a contract for this season and will begin his work April 12, according to an announcement of the greens committee Saturday.

Casey, in his first year as a professional after a number of years as a caddy and assistant professional, made an enviable record last summer by scoring a number of near par rounds over the local course. His feature exhibition of the year was a defeat of Johnny Florp, former state amateur champion, over the local course.

His popularity in the Columbus vicinity has aided the local club materially for many visitors have come here through Casey's influence who otherwise would not have come.

His choice as club professional is certain to be a popular one with members of the country club.

WHITE CUTS LABOR COST

Industrial Investigator's Job, Held By Croxton, Now Abolished.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31.—Gov. George White's state economy program reached the industrial relations department here today when Thomas A. Edmondson, director of the department, announced the abolishment of the position held by investigator.

The post originally carried a salary of $4,500 a year. The salary was recently reduced, however to $3,500 a month pending Croxton's stay in Washington where he was called by Col. Arthur Woods to assist in attacking the national unemployment problem.

Reorganization of the state finance department was announced yesterday by Finance director Howard L. Bevis. The shake-up in this department eliminates the division of accounts and controls established under the Cooper administration and results in a savings to the state of $50,166 a year.

NINE INJURED

HESTER, Pa., Jan. 31.—Nine persons were hurt, four possibly fatally, in a head-on collision of two automobiles near Prospect Park today.

Six of the injured were residents of Long Island, N. Y., while the other three were from Philadelphia.

DO-X HOPS ON LONG TOUR TO UNITED STATES

Giant German Flying Boat Takes Off from Lisbon This Morning

NEW YORK IS GOAL

First Stop to Be Canary Isles, Brazil is Next

LISBON, Jan. 31.—Setting out on a 11,500-mile flight to New York, via the South Atlantic and Brazil, the DO-X, giant German twelve-motored flying boat, took off from Lisbon at 3:08 a. m. (E. S. T.) today.

Taxying smoothly despite her terrific size and weight the DO-X rose from the water in two minutes. She flew up the Targus river, then turned and disappeared almost immediately in the clouds, followed by one Portuguese army plane.

Before the departure the German Charge D' Affaires and several Portuguese Ministers of State went aboard to bid farewell to the passengers and crew.

Her first scheduled stop was Las Palmas, Canary Island, 930 miles to the southwest. Captain Horst, chief pilot, was at the controls as Captain Friedrich Christiansen, master of the ship, gave the signal for the departure. Lieutenant C. H. Schildhauer, American assistant pilot, was expected to take the controls after the ship was in the air.

The human cargo aboard totaled nineteen. Thirteen make up the crew, the others being passengers. The passengers are Max Sauve and Hans Stadthagen, technicians of the Condor Syndicate; Major Stanislov Krakov, representing Jugoslav air interests; Captain Fritz Hammer, German air ace and director of the Condor air mail; and Admiral Gago Coutinho of the Portuguese Navy.

CARRY GREETINGS

The first four will leave the ship at Las Palmas, Captain Hammer and Admiral Coutinho alone continuing all the way across the south Atlantic. Admiral Coutinho carries greetings from the Portuguese government to the Brazilian government.

Seven thousand gallons of gasoline and 600 gallons of oil were in the DO-X tanks at the hop off. Five extra fuel tanks have been installed on the passenger deck to provide space for sufficient fuel for the long hop between Porto Praia, Cape Verde Island, and Fernando De Noronha, the longest projected hop, a distance of 1,500 miles.

Ample supplies of food were carried in the larder for serving two meals on the first stage of the flight. Passengers had access to an American bar where anything from German beer to French champagne and Scotch whiskey could be bought. Members of the crew will not be allowed to indulge as Captain Christiansen has decreed they must be prohibitionists while in flight.

BULKLEY CITES GROUP'S REPORT

CANTON, O., Jan. 31.—The Wickersham report suggests further trial of the 15th amendment but up to this time no constructive legislation has been proposed nor has President Hoover made any recommendations for legislation to make possible this plan for further trial.

That statement today was credited to Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Ohio Democrat, who spoke at the Stark-co-Jackson day dinner here last night. More than 300 Democrats attended this meeting.

LIFE OF CRIME COMES TO END FOR OHIO TRIO

Sites, McCartney Masses Die Within Half Hour At Ohio Penitentiary

ALL GO CALMLY

Brutally Murdered Young Galion Station Attendant

BY JOSEPH K. RUKENBROD.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31.—Three bunks in death row at Ohio Penitentiary here were empty today and their three recent occupants had dozed off into an eternal sleep. Where yesterday there were housed nine doomed men, "murderers' row" held only six today in its pits of shame.

For society last night kept a trust with justice and the careers of three youthful sinners were brought to an end in the orison's electric chair shortly after 7:30 o'clock.

Sullen and resigned to their fates the three walked to their deaths in the second triple execution in the history of Ohio, and within the brief space of 25 minutes, the state devoured the lives of Earl Sites, 27; Kenneth McCartney 25, and Fred Masses, 27, all of Mansfield, for the murder of Ralph Wilcox, Galion station attendant.

Clutching a crucifix in his hand and accompanied by Father O'Brien, Catholic chaplain of the penitentiary, Sites led the procession of death.

His already white, expressionless face turned to a ghastly pale as he confronted the grim instrument of death. Without uttering a word, Sites calmly sat in the chair that took his life a few minutes later.

He was pronounced dead by Dr. George W. Kell, the prison physician, at 7:41 p. m.

After his body was taken to waiting hearse, the youngest member of the trio—the so-called "baby," McCartney—was brought into the death chamber by the Rev. K. E. Wall, Protestant chaplain of the prison.

MCCARTNEY SMILES
Unshaken by the sight of the chair, McCartney directed a broad smile at Warden P. E. Thomas, Colonel Walter Collins, of the Volunteers of America, and several other witnesses among the capacity crowd of newspaper men and officials.

McCartney was dead at 7:55, after the last of the three slayers of Wilcox. He was the first of the three to be tried and sentenced and was named by his two accomplices as the "trigger man" in the killing of Wilcox.

Dr. Kell pronounced him dead at 7:59 p. m.

Masses entered the death chamber with Father O'Brien at his side. Without a single glance around the small room, the gunner-robber sat in the large chair as boldly as the bold crime for which he was giving his life.

All were similarly dressed in dark blue suits. Sites, however, wore no tie or vest.

After the last slayer had met his doom, the three bodies were borne away in three black hearses. Masses was buried in Calvary cemetery in Columbus this morning. Services were to be held in Mansfield later in the day for Sites and McCartney.

SLEW ATTENDANT

The crime for which the trio went to death occurred on the night of last June 27 when Ralph Wilcox resisted the holdup attempt of the three robbers. For weeks he hovered between life and death in a Galion hospital. In the meantime, the trio had been captured, tried and sentenced to the penitentiary by the Richland-co courts for a criminal attack against a young Mansfield woman.

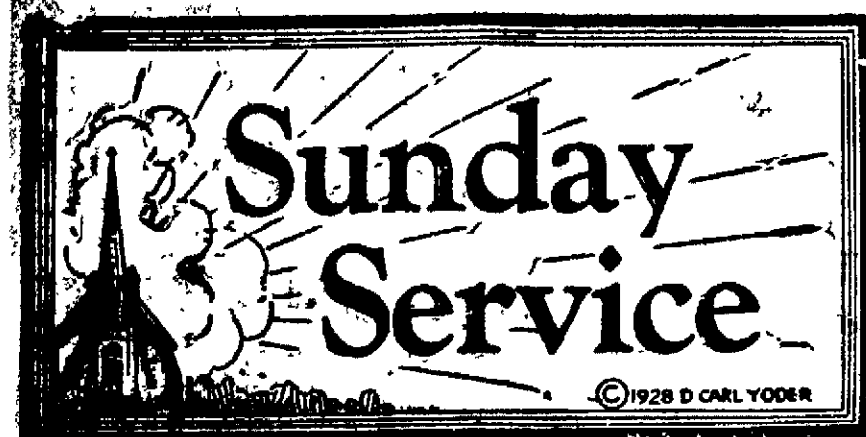

Following Wilcox' death, early in August, the three were taken to Sycus where speedily taken sent them back to the Ohio penitentiary with convictions of first degree murder and armed robbery.

Repeated appeals to the state court failed.

Why Go to Church?

Everyone ought to do his part in lifting the ideals and practices of a community to higher levels. Moral progress depends upon the exercise of the lifting power. Reforms, benevolent and philanthropic causes are demonstrations of lifting power exercised in individuals. Our country and the work needs more and more that sort of lifting power. The question to be settled is that of developing this power. The church is the one institution that has given origin and championed reform movements and philanthropies which is evidence that there is provided in the church the necessary lifting power. To be a dead weight morally is to evade the church. To be a lifting power is to be a faithful attendant at church. Why not go to church next Sunday?

The Master Thought Here

It is to do everything possible to deepen and strengthen your allegiance to the store. We want more than your trade, more than just your dollars and cents. We are striving for your appreciation—your good will. That's the main thing. Everything else follows. We'd rather create a fine impression and miss a sale, than make a sale and create a poor impression. Our policy is in control of that principle. Remember, we are in business to do all we can for customers. Every rule is made with your good-will in mind.

Lesson

At the moment this narrative begins, Jesus was in a synagogue preaching repentance and forgiveness of sins; to him worship was first; however he carried out the gospel in a practical way everywhere and since there is a connection of soul and body, he gave attention to physical healing as well as spiritual.

V. 38. "And he rose up from the synagogue and entered into the house of Simon. And Simon's wife's mother was holden with a great fever; and they besought him for her." The mother was very sick because of the great fever. There was earnest prayer for her; the cure was complete as she immediately proceeded to do the work of entertaining her guests. Here is a true connection between church and home.

V. 40. "And when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them and healed them." Religion having flowed out of the church into the home, must not be confined there, but must overflow into the street and send its cleansing tide through the city and throughout the world.

V. 41. "And demons came out also from many, crying out and saying thou art the Son of God.
And rebuking them suffered them not to speak, because they knew not that he was the Christ." The Lord wants witnesses but they must be true and sincere, speaking from real knowledge.

V. 42. "And when it was day, he came out and went into a desert place; and the multitude sought after him and came unto him and would have stayed him, that he should not go from them."
Every Christian needs to be reinforced by divine strength and wisdom which calls for hours of quiet meditation and private devotion. The crowds will follow the preacher that has a life-giving message.

V. 43. "But he said unto them,
I must preach the tidings of the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore was I sent."
Our Lord was a missionary and by example taught us to follow him and make missionary work first.

We must have concern for our destiny and choose the right road.
The policy of getting by does not aid us in getting on in the business of building character.

Last Half Sees Boys Lose; Girls Victors

GRANDVIEW TAKES ADVANTAGE OF RED AND BLACK WEARINESS; GIRLS TOY WITH SUBURBAN SIX

Entirely too much floor, lack of experience and weariness in the last half, caused defeat of Coach Herberholz' Circleville high school Tigers at Grandview Friday evening. The score of the game played on Grandview floor was 33 to 18. The gym was much larger than the local C. A. C. floor, and as a result the locals had difficulty in their pass-work. The Grandviewites could boast of about four six footers who easily played around the locals. Not being accustomed to such a large gym, with so much area to cover, the Tigers grew weary in the last half, during which time the opposition scored 19 points to their six.

The game started off nicely, and it looked as though the Red and Black had a chance. Circleville led in scoring until just when the end of the first quarter sounded when Grandview shot two free throws, and the score was 7-7. During the second quarter which was the most interesting part of the game, each team obtained about the same number of points. Grandview, through Sargent, flashed forward and Ulrich, tall center, hit the hoop twice and once, respectively, and the Tigers by Purcell and White, who each had a goal, and a free toss by Purcell added five more to their score. At half time the score was 14 to 12 with the blue and white men leading by a goal.

The last half proved fatal to the Herberholz-men, as during the third quarter, Kloeke and Sargent of Grandview added three goals while the locals added but three more to their score by J. Hegele, through a goal and a free throw by McClure. At the end of the third quarter the score was 20 to 15, with the Red and Blacks still clinging to the short end.

During the last quarter in which Grandview obtained more points than in any other session, White of the Tigers retired from the floor because of personal fouls Sargent and Ulrich and Kloeke began making the hoop from all angles. The victory for Grandview gives them undisputed position for first place in the Central Buckeye League, while Circleville, Westerville and Bexley all line up for a tie for second. Next week the Red and Black machine treks to Bexley, in an attempt to break this tie, and go into second place.

Bob Shea, Columbus, refereed and Simmons, West Virginia, umpired.

CONGESTION PROBLEMS

While traffic congestion on street levels is an easily observed problem, there are congestion problems beneath the oft-punctured pavements which are quite as puzzling and as hard to solve. Costly and troublesome street excavations have to be made constantly in order to repair and expand the various utilities' underground plants.

ODDS AND ENDS

Summer Camps Prove Value
The organized summer camp had its beginning about 50 years ago. In 1880 Ernest Burtch established a camp for boys on Lake Asquam in New Hampshire. Shortly afterward other camps were established and the movement began to grow rapidly. The health, educational and recreational values of summer camps for boys had become so well organized by 1900 that a similar movement for camps for girls was launched at that time.

Barbaric Punishment

A change of policy in the war department toward the universal draft bill has just come to light through a frank statement of opinion by Secretary Hurley. The secretary of war lets it be known that he is opposed to passage at this time of the bill introduced in 1929 at the behest of his predecessor, former Secretary Good.

Secretary Hurley's reasons seem valid enough to the lay mind. He is opposed to legislation of this nature in peace time, believing that any legislation enacted now would prove inadequate for the particular emergency in which the country might be involved, and that it would be harmful and disturbing to have to repeal such legislation and procure the enactment of a different law containing the essential provisions.

This alternative plan is for congress to keep the bill before it and to keep it up to date, that the latest thought would be always incorporated in the bill and congress be in a position to act without hesitation whenever an emergency became imminent.

This reasoning is in accord with the program of congress, which last June adopted a joint resolution providing for a commission to study policies to be pursued in the event of war. This commission will report a year from now.

While many will disagree with the secretary of war that the most propitious time for enacting war legislation is while the country is in the heat of war or generally agreed that until the commission reports it would be most unwise for congress to anticipate its findings in a universal draft bill.

Tomorrow

SCIENTISTS are giving support to the admonition of the Sermon on the Mount to mortals against being over-anxious for the morrow. They, too, offer assurance that "the morrow will take thought for the things of itself."

In there anxiety lest the sun burn itself out in a few million years and grow cold? Scientists arise to dispel that anxiety by informing the world authoritatively that it will continue to give the earth its light and heat for 150 billion years. This contingency is so remote as not to divert thought from sufficient evil which the present brings in remembered losses and bothersome debts.

Is there Malthusian despair over the incommensurate growth of populations in static national boundaries over the problem as to how these increasing multitudes are to be fed and as to where they are to be clothed? The chemist promptly promises more abundant crops from soils artificially enriched and even warmed, and supplements these with synthetic foods. Is there fear lest the oil supply will not be continuously replenished, but will some early day be exhausted and man's mobility restricted? Again the resourceful chemist has his substitutes ready or in prospect.

But if worse comes to worse, if, though the sun should not grow cold, as the Bedouin dreamed, or the stars not grow so old as to be dimmed of sight, the beds of coal should be emptied of their stores gathered through the ages, still man would not need to be anxious for the remote morrow, for, as was announced by an experienced engineer, the earth has a subterranean furnace whose heat is 30,000,000 times greater than that of the entire coal supply. To be sure, it is so hot that even a Shadrach, Meshach or Abednego could not approach the outer door, a few miles below the earth's surface, but to greater depths man's ingenuity can penetrate with the aid of electricity and other forces and fetch heat as Prometheus fished it from the gods, far above.

Sound Policy

A PENNSYLVANIA judge is a father of a bill before the legislature of his state providing for the restoration of the whipping post for the punishment of certain offenses. He favors this brutal form of punishment because he believes "flogging is the only way to stamp out crime among certain classes of lawbreakers."

Criminologists do not agree with him. Their theory is that the certainty of punishment is 10 times as strong a deterrent as its severity. Perhaps the jurist can also qualify as a criminologist, but at least there is an honest difference of opinion.

The chance is that Pennsylvania would not need a whipping post or any other fancy form of penal torture if she made every form of lawbreaking certain of punishment. The chances of escape from capture are too good to keep the lawless lawless.

In the state of Delaware, where that primitive instrument of punishment, the whipping post, has survived the humanizing influence of civilization, no claims are made that it prevents murder, banditry, and racketeering. It hasn't even banished the barbaric custom of wife-beating.

Psychologists present some evidence to the effect that the evil effects of unusual punishment and torture upon the lawless element in society is greater than their reformative effect upon the lawless. Do men not blame the wave of crimes of violence upon the brutalizing effects of the war which made men cruel and reckless?

One guess: Who was the boy ambitious to be a journalist who had to become president and retire before any newspaper would print his stuff?

That plan of the smokestackers to make electric light bills the issue of the 1932 campaign seems to have suffered electrocution.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.
Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, reluctantly drops her latest beau, Mat Tully, when her mother warns her against marrying a poor man. "As she did." At the rich Craigs' house party, Nancy receives the attentions of Jack Beamer, handsome sportsman, happily married. Nancy and Louise, her sister, are called home. Their rich Aunt Ellie has arrived. She promises the girls a trip to Yosemite.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.
THE Whaley girl next door furnished mama with more tangible worry. She was getting invitations to the Tollenbeck girls were not. And who were the Whaleys? Nobody at all. Mama had snubbed Bertha Smith for the shopkeeper's daughter she was when they were girls, and turned up her aristocratic nose at the plodding. Dutchy Raymond Whaley, who was even in society at all. And now Bertha with a daughter mentioned in the society columns nearly every day. It was too much. Mama was worried, and when she worried, she nagged.

"Louise, the Whaley girl is on the receiving list at Major Nutting's, is she?"
"Yes, she is. It says here in the Herald, 'Miss Isabelle Whaley, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Arthur Whaley, of Piedmont, will be one of the charming young girls who will—'"
"Oh, spare us. What do I care what Isabelle Whaley does?"
"Louise! Mama won't have you talk like that. I don't understand why you girls weren't asked? Are you sure you have always been sweet to Mrs. Nutting? You know, dear, sometimes you're a little indifferent." "Oh, mama! It isn't that!"

Reflected Actions

"How do you know it isn't my dear? And it isn't as though you were alone. Your actions reflect on Nancy. It hardly seems fair for your younger sister to have to suffer because you're—"
"But, mama, I HAVEN'T been rude to Mrs. Nutting. Good Lord, she doesn't know I'm alive!"
"LOUISE! You mustn't talk like that to your mother. Why doesn't she want to know you? I'm sure my people are as good as hers. When I was a young girl no snarling gathering would have been COMPLETE without me. It's true that your father's people are not—distinguished... but nobody knows them around here. It isn't like having a grandfather who kept a grocery store, like poor Isabelle. Who would think to see Bertha Whaley in her mink coat now, that she wore dirty red plush—dirty, mind you, made out of an old tablecloth or something, when she was first married. I'm not one to wish anyone harm, but I often think if people ever saw Dutchy Whaley with his dirty face, working for my father around the stable in Fruitvale."

Gickety, click, Gickety, click. Once mama's tongue got started on that subject there was no stopping it.

Nancy wasn't herself, either. She wandered around with two bright red spots in her cheeks, listening for the telephone, watching for the postman, quarrelsome and restless as a caged cat.

"For Pete's sake, if we're going, why don't we go? What is Aunt Ellie waiting for? I'd known we were going to visit around a week I'd have gone right back to the river. It'll be just like her not to go, after all!"

But, slowly and surely, Aunt

Ellie got ready to leave. Two of the best rooms at the Hawthorne were reserved. Tickets were bought. A fat roll of greenbacks withdrawn from the bank. Her favorite prescriptions filled, her traveling medicine case, equipped with various colored pills, a bottle of pre-war whiskey against snake bite. A case of mineral water to go on ahead. A last farewell to poor Dutchy Joseph, round-faced and jolly, despite his sufferings, as he lay on his narrow white bed at St. Francis Hospital. A last poisonous look at the fresh-looking nurse who was "specializing" in him, and Aunt Ellie and the girls were on their way.

Mama waved a fondly tearful good-bye from the doorway; the taxi started. Aunt Ellie pointed a fat finger at the meter. "It was twenty-five cents before we went a quarter of a block. He can't cheat me. There goes his tip!"

They came into the valley at midday. It lay under the golden eye of the sun in extravagant, unbridled beauty. A turquoise sky with out the faintest puff of cloud hung like a canopy overhead. A back drop of mountains, picked out with the silvery threads of distant waterfalls; the deep green of distant forest was like a stage setting for the rustic luxury of the most expensive hotel. Rivers rushed, clucking coolly over stones. Mountain meadows gleamed through trees. The great falls thundered; the sun made rainbows of their farflung spray.

Monotony
But Aunt Ellie Watson was not interested in scenery. She had come to the Yosemite to rock, and she made it very plain that she had brought the girls to rock with her. Resentful but resigned, Lou sat beside her and said "Yes, Aunt Ellie," and "No, I don't think so, Aunt Ellie," while the old lady droned, "I don't think much of a fish for lunch. At the prices they charge one would expect... mercy, what a mosquito! I declare, if there's one around here for miles, it makes for me... I wonder what your Uncle Joseph is up to? You needn't expect to get anything when he passes away; he will have it all spent on women. Did you see that nurse look at me? She knew I knew what she was up to... Rheumatism, indeed! I'll show him!"

Nancy sat mate beside them, her slim hands crossed in her lap, dark eyes moodily scanning the crowds. After dinner they yawned in the lobby until nine o'clock. Aunt Ellie put her everlasting crochets in its black satin bag and piled it towards the elevator. "We might as well go too," Louise said. "We don't know anyone."

She slipped her arm through Nancy's and got to her feet. "Wait!" Nancy breathed. She was leaning forward, staring fixedly at a man who had just come in.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

by Edison R. Waite
Shawnee, Okla.

THAT many business men should have a wider vision of modern business - a vision which will lead the way for increased opportunity and increased business. ADVERTISE - AND KEEP IT! If you want greater business. ADVERTISE - AND GET IT! You can make quicker profits by quick turning of stock. If you don't have a quick turnover, your stock will depreciate in value. You can't "play dead" and get anywhere. The man who hesitates too much is lost. Hit-and-miss methods in business don't pay. The public wants good seasonal merchandise at reasonable prices. IF YOU HAVE THE RIGHT KIND OF GOODS, SERVICE AND PRICES, LET THE PEOPLE KNOW. ADVERTISE!

Discussion on Questions & Answers Lesson

Discussion questions on the Sunday school lesson, Jesus the Great Physician, Luke 4:38, 5:12-16 for Sunday, February 1.

- How do healing practices work in the church?
- How to carry the gospel out to the church into the home and into the community and throughout the world?
- How to proceed to apply gospel messages to civic reform?
- What obligation does the possession of health place upon its possessor?
- What is the current view of the relation between faith and works in matters of health?
- Why should the church be interested in better housing? In pure food? In a living wage?

Lesson prayer. "Give us such a determination to make effective power of the gospel of Christ as will cause us to worship God using the strength he gives us to render the service most needed for our fellowman."

AT THE CLINTONA

Sheer force of the kind which the silent picture did not tackle because of the lack of dialogue, is more and more finding its way to the talking screen.

As their contribution to this phase of entertainment, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will present "Those Three French Girls" at the Clintona Theatre starting Sunday.

The plot of this talkie farce is marked by its many opportunities for "gags" and laughs. Briefly, it concerns the meeting in jail of Reginald Denny, a somewhat gay young Englishman; Cliff Edwards and Edward Brophy, Americans of imbibitory habits, and three French modistes, Fifi Dorsey, Yola d'Avril and Sandra Ravel, jailed because they threw flower pots at their landlord during an argument.

AT THE GRAND

"Red" Grange, who has conquered all opponents on the football field, is this year making a new departure, and is heading what is termed "The Spirit of Minstrelsy," a combination of the old-time minstrel entertainment and modern vaudeville show. This will not really be a new venture for "Red" has had quite considerable stage experience, having been a headliner in all the leading vaudeville theatres in the country, and acquitted himself during that time with as much approval as on the football field.

In addition to Grange, this high-class organization of minstrel talent will embrace such well known people as Mrs. George Primrose, wife of the immortal George, whose name means more to the minstrel fan than any ever connected with this everlasting form of entertainment. As a mark of distinction, and out of respect for her husband's art and in

Atmosphere You Can "Cut with a Knife"
—Don't Breathe "Air Without Life."

Too Many People Are Indifferent to Fresh Air, Warns Dr. Copeland, Reminding That Ventilation in Home, Office or Recreation-Place Is Important to Health

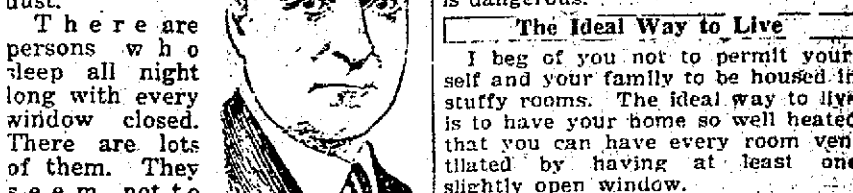

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IT is strange how many persons have no interest in the sort of air they breathe. They appear perfectly indifferent to an atmosphere that you could "cut with a knife." They will sit for hours in a room blue with tobacco smoke, or in air filled with dust.

There are persons who sleep all night long with every window closed. There are lots of them. They seem not to know or care that the air is perfectly vile.

All I can say is they are laying up trouble and misery for themselves and their families. Unless you are built like a savage, you cannot have good health without a lot of fresh air in the house day and night. You should make it a point to have some ventilation, whether it is by way of windows or doors or by some artificial means.

Of course, if you are so fortunate as to have a house installed with modern ventilation, you are to be congratulated. But few have adequate ventilating systems, so that the only means of having fresh air is by way of the window or door.

The Ideal Way to Live
A beg of you not to permit your self and your family to be housed in stuffy rooms. The ideal way to live is to have your home so well heated that you can have every room ventilated by having at least one slightly open window.

There is nothing in the world so good as fresh air for man, woman and child. Next to eating, it is the most important factor in insuring good health.

Dress yourself warmly enough so that you can enjoy the fresh air. Build up resistance to disease by getting "out of doors" and breathing the right kind of air, every day, every night. For the sake of your health do this, and get from exercise what you are doing it for. It is necessary to sit in draught, and you shouldn't. The are shields and other devices to direct the currents of air to the face and head, and you can work out some plan of your own to get fresh air without chill.

Answers to Health Queries

M. S. W. Q.—I have been troubled with an itchesness of the thighs, leaving the legs covered with black and blue marks as if they had been bruised. What would cause this trouble?
A.—These symptoms would seem to suggest purpura. See your doctor for a definite diagnosis and proper treatment.

J. F. M. Q.—How can I reduce?
A.—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Exercise is of course essential. A good brisk walk for half an hour every day is helpful. For other information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and repeat your question.

Well Earned Promotion
"You are a good driver," said the passenger to a taxi chauffeur. "If you keep driving this way, you will some time hold down a fine job."

"Thank you, sir" was the quick reply. "I'm only thinking of doing this job well."

"Have you noticed that second boy at the necktie counter?" said the floorwalker to the superintendent.

"No," said the man, "what about him?"

"He is the happiest, most delighted lad on this floor," was the reply. "He is always on the job and contented."

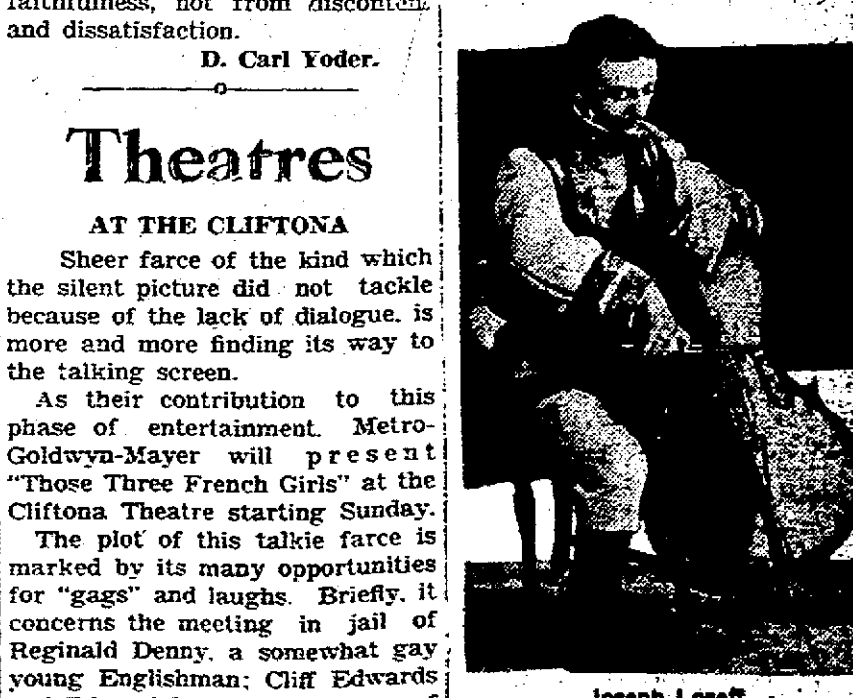

That lad is now at the head of a large department and in line for still further promotion, although he does not know it.

True ambition centers itself in making the work we are doing better, not in seeking better work. Advance grows out of effort and faithfulness, not from discontent and dissatisfaction.

TABER'S TALK

The second essential in the development of sound commodity co-operative marketing associations, through which the farmer may study the market requirements in planning his production work. Master Taber said, that organized farmers are not seeking special privilege, but are demanding equality in the administration of governmental affairs and the determination of traffic, railroad rates, etc. With the great need for representation in state and national legislative bodies and the need for the further development of farmer owned and farmer controlled co-operative marketing agencies, and the need for the development of a well correlated agricultural program as a safeguard to the standard of living of the American Farmer, Master Taber said that no sympathy can be extended the farmer who says he cannot afford to pay his organization dues. There has never been a time when the need for co-operative effort was greater nor the opportunities for greater accomplishments than today.

student opinion

Several Tigers showed very poor sportsmanship last Saturday evening after the Chillicothe-Circleville basketball game. They ate at a certain Chillicothe restaurant. That much was alright. But! When they left several not only took with them what they had eaten but also part of what they had eaten with.

These boys may have taken pieces of silverware as a joke, but it is a very poor joke to play on anyone for several obvious reasons: "borrowing without permission" is really stealing even though high school pupils are the offenders; such acts leave a low opinion of our school, especially when the official representatives of C. H. S. appear as members of its team are supposed to "put away childish things" and act mature or at least honest, which is the foundation of sportsmanship.

Things like that degrade the reputation of the school. That such things have been done before is no reason why we should now allow a few to lower the reputation of the whole school.

Let's not let it happen again. And let's urge the guilty ones to return the "souvenirs" at once.

WE NEED MORE LIBRARY PERIODS

Students who visit the school library during school hours or after dismissal receive efficient service from Miss Velma Watson, librarian, and her assistants. However there is no one in the library between 8 and 8:30 a. m. or 12:40 and 1 p. m. Therefore students cannot return books during session room periods, but must interrupt study halls to do so.

If there were as efficient librarians before school as during school, pupils could return books to be used during school hours. Perhaps this will meet with the librarians' approval? Perhaps some student would like the position? How about it?

Things About Your School

EIGHTH GRADERS
Eighth grade A class negative team were victors in a debate, held in Miss Florence Brown's modern business class Wednesday. The subject was: "Resolved, that a Business Career Offers a Better Opportunity Than the Profession of Medicine."

Affirmative team was composed of Elsie Brehmer, George Ammer, James Reichelderfer, and Horace Gilmore.

Negative team consisted of Otis Mader, Tom Kirwin, Bernice Liston, and Lydia Given.

CORWIN STREET

Every room in Corwin-st., with the exception of lower special education had an attendance record over 90 percent, for the month ending January 23, according to a report filed in Miss Florence Hoffman's room.

Following are individual reports: Miss Hoffman, 99; Miss Stout, 95; Mrs. Lamb, 94.7; Miss Buskirk, 91.7; Miss Palm, 94.9; Miss Brennan, 96.4; Miss Barthelmas, 95.1; Miss Crist, 94.8; Miss Tolbert, 95.8; and Mrs. Mills, 95.7. Miss Hamilton's higher special education, 96.8 and Mrs. Vlerchome, 82.6.

Miss Mary Walters, Circleville substituted in special education, Tuesday afternoon, during the absence of Miss Marie Hamilton.

FRANKLIN STREET

Miss Norma Ross, whose illness has kept her from her teaching duties since school began, returned Monday to her third grade class.

Miss Jeanette Rowe, second grade teacher, has also returned after a short absence due to injuries sustained when hit by an automobile.

Students in charge of Miss Sophia Parks are studying the structures of letters. These letters are sent to various firms for samples of soap, cereal, and salt which are used in connection with the sixth grade health programs.

Students of the fifth grade are sending letters to members of commerce members throughout the country to obtain colored maps and folders illustrating various scenes in their respective states. These folders are used in geography.

Pupils of this grade have started a "soup kitchen" for birds by placing their discarded Christmas tree in the school yard and tying pieces of bread to it each day.

DR. STOKES WILL GIVE NEW COURSE

"Mental Measurement" a course to be given by Dr. Stewart Stokes of Ohio University's Department of Psychology, is being arranged to meet at Corwin-st. school.

Prof. Stokes, a regular resident instructor at Ohio University, is willing to come here twice a week for a few weeks in order that the course may not extend too far into the end of school activities.

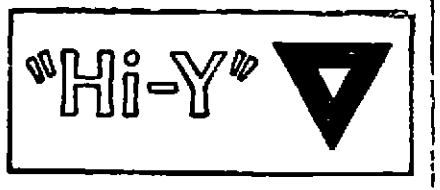

All interested in such a course are requested to get in touch with Miss Florence Hoffman as soon as possible.

A final quiz and review brought the psychology course, given by Prof. Stokes of Ohio University, Athens, to a number of city and county teachers, to a close at Corwin st., Thursday evening.

RESERVES DEFEAT EMERY CLUB, 16-13

Circleville High boys' reserves emerged victorious Wednesday evening when they garnered 16 points to top the 13 of the Emery Club reserves.

The game, which took place at the Parish House gymnasium was a hard fought contest.

"The necessity of high standards in school work is very great," stated Ralph Garner at the regular Tuesday noon meeting of the Hi-Y club.

James Sampson and Robert Elsea talked on eligibility and scholarship in the Hi-Y, respectively. This was followed by a general club discussion. Plans were made for the chapel program to be put on by the club in the near future.

CHILDREN LEARN CARE OF BABIES

Over 50 girls from the eighth grade and higher special education are being given a course on "The Care of the Young Child" by Miss Charlotte Phelps, district health nurse, at the city cottage on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

The course, which has just started, is being sponsored in cooperation with the Division of Child Hygiene of the Ohio Department of Health.

Booklets have been distributed by Miss Phelps and a class of eighth grade girls given the course on Tuesday afternoon, while another class from eighth grade, and girls of Miss Marie Hamilton's higher special education on Wednesday afternoon.

TIGERS WIN FROM JACKSON, 15-12

Red and Black basketballers invaded the Jackson-tup High school basketball court, Tuesday evening for a second game and annexed a 15-12 victory from the township laddies.

The Tigers got an early lead and kept it all through the game. John Hensel refereed the game.

In the high school all English, mathematics and history classes are above the state medians. All Latin and science classes are below the state medians.

In the elementary schools both seventh and eighth year history and all English from fourth through the eighth excepting High-st, sixth and Corwin fifth are above the state medians. In arithmetic the seventh grades, Corwin and Higast fifth and Franklin 5A, and the fourths of Franklin and High-st are above the medians of Ohio. Elementary classes below the state medians are: High-st, sixth and Corwin fifth English classes, the arithmetic of the sixth grades of Franklin, Corwin, High-st and the arithmetic of Franklin 5B, the eighth grade, and the fourth grades of Corwin and Walnut.

Girl Reserves

Monthly social meeting of the Girl Reserves was held at the school building Thursday evening.

The business meeting was followed by contests and singing which were in charge of Ellen Beunott, Rosemary Jackson, and Katherine Foreman.

Jello, baked potatoes sandwich and cocoa were served by the cooking committee, Martha Kinney, Georgia Leist and Dorothy M. Glick.

INSTALL COAT RACK

A coat and hat rack containing 24 hooks was installed in the second floor corridor of the high school building, Tuesday by John Himrod and Donald Wolfe. This was necessitated by the magnificent number of books on that floor.

Through careful scheming by the two husky carpenters, the cost of construction was kept down to approximately $3.

WEEK'S GUIDANCE PROGRAMS SHOW UNUSAL VARIETY

Guidance for this week has covered a wide variety of entertainment and interesting features. Discussions, debates, and dialogues made up programs of most rooms.

Other rooms had reports on various colleges, means of transportation and on how to apply for a position.

Programs follow:

AUDITORIUM

The boys of Fred Watt's guidance class played volleyball ball during guidance periods.

ROOM 10
Pupils in Miss Elma Rains' guidance class continued a discussion of "Health."

"Cleanliness" was also discussed and Eleanor Dade, Martha Denny, Mary Coleman and Bernard Epperly gave special reports on cleanliness of the body, clothing, hair, and nails.

ROOM 12

Everyone is invited to help the members make this a profitable evening and enjoy themselves with their friends or card clubs. Reservation can be made with any of the committee Earl Pearce chairman; Joe Lynch, Roy Beatty, Marion Sensesbrenner and Henry Joseph.

Trials Build Character

Trials, temptations, disappointments—all these are helps instead of hindrances, if one uses them rightly. They not only test the fiber of character, but strengthen it. Every conquered temptation represents a new fund of moral energy.—James Buckham.

Lived In Primitive Way

The Incas of Peru, who built remarkable stone houses, did not, apparently, use tables or chairs.

Nugget of Wisdom

Service and self-sacrifice will wash the ache from your heart.

Long Walk for Results

Scientific patience is to be illustrated again by an experiment begun by the Swiss glacier commission. In an attempt to determine the speed of glaciers, a steel cylinder has been placed in the ice at the head of a number of Swiss glaciers. Each cylinder contains an explanation of the experiment, written on special paper with special ink. It is not expected that the results will be known for eight generations to come, or about 250 years.
